ELECTRONIC HOUSE MAGAZINE HONORS NetStreams® WITH A 2005 PRODUCTS OF THE YEAR AWARD

NetStreams DigiLinX™ Audio Distribution System; IP-Based Control and Content Delivery

AUSTIN, TX (September 26, 2005) -- NetStreams®, the global leader in networked entertainment systems based on Internet protocol (IP) technology, announced its DigiLinX™ Multi-Room Audio and Control System has been named as one of Electronic House magazine's Products of the Year for 2005. Winners appear in the September issue.

Recognizing that networked audio marks a fundamental change in the way audio is distributed and controlled in a multi-room system, Electronic House selected DigiLinX based on its technological innovation combined with overall value and outstanding feature set.

"We are very passionate about high-quality music reproduction throughout the home, and being recognized by Electronic House for that passion is very satisfying," said Herman Cardenas, founder and chief executive officer of NetStreams.

DigiLinX is comprised of IP-Based audio products networked to distribute audio and control signals over an Ethernet network, using TCP/IP to multiple rooms. As the first and only completely IP-Based solution in the marketplace, it permits seamless communication with other home systems such as lighting controls, home automation systems, security systems, etc., and can be controlled using any device equipped with a Web browser. Examples of interfaces that NetStreams believes will become popular with its customers are in-wall IP-based touch screen keypads, PDAs, web tablets, and PCs.
